Special Snowflakes

You've probably heard that no two snowflakes are the same. But how do we know this for sure? Scientists say it's a matter of probability: A fully formed snowflake has about a quintillion molecules (a quintillion is the number 1 followed by 18 zeroes). The chance of these molecules arranging themselves in the exact same way more than once is incredibly slim, especially when affected by constantly changing factors like temperature and humidity.

Heidi Bridgmon and Mindy Schmitz hand out popcorn bags at Noel On Norris. Kinship Pointe McCook was a proud sponsor of this wonderful McCook event.
